COLONIAL THEATRE. The Magnate of Paradise, Edison Two-

This splendid two-reel drama by the Edison cast, headed by Augustus Phillips, is a daring exposure of strategic measures exercised in political circles to bring about results that will be profitable to their various parties. Augustus Phillips as the young district attorney is the target for the antag-onistic party. Blackmall figures con-spicuously in the conspiracy, but, as in all dramas with a pleasing climax, right prevails and the drama ends in a most satisfactory manner.
